

I am a Survivor

We are here for you!

A Sexual Violence Response Advisor (SVRA) can help you to figure out what to do next and connect you with other important services and supports including:

- Counselling
- Safety planning
- Academic or employment accommodations
- External referrals

We support survivors!

When receiving services with us you can expect to be treated with dignity and respect. Always.

Remember!

You are not alone and you are not to blame.

S Safety — Are you in a safe place? This should be somewhere that the perpetrator of the sexual violence cannot access you and where there are safe and trustworthy people to support you.

A Assistance — Do you need medical attention? This may be important if you have any injuries. It can also help avoid sexually transmitted infections or pregnancy. A Sexual Assault Care Center can help you to collect evidence. (Even if you don't want to press charges or make a report, this allows you the option in the future.)

F Free Will — Remember, you have the right to decide what course of action is best for you.

E Emotional Support — It can be helpful to have supports in place to help you. Some good supports might include trusted friends or family members, a counsellor or other relevant professionals. At George Brown College, a Sexual Violence Response Advisor can help you to connect with the appropriate services.
